

WHEN IT COMES TO CANDY,
COME TO THORNE'S!

The youngsters will love the large, colorful Easter baskets we have already packed with candied toys and animals. Chicks, bunnies, roosters, eggs—all of delicious, nutritious sweets. It's a gift that will really make their eyes sparkle!

The Easter eggs are the old-fashioned kind: tasty, shredded coconut and yellow yolk centers, covered with rich milk chocolate. Slice them and you'll eat to the last bite!

Thorne's has candy for all, and invites you to see the picturesque display. But remember, some candy is made mostly to look at, while ours is made for you to eat and enjoy.

Spring Shopping Guide, 1949

It's New to Us

Spring Shopping. Hoping that our footwork may save yours, here is a general roundup of newer, better buys in town. First, we'll cover Easter suggestions, next; general Spring needs or wants.

Part I. Gifts for Women. Perfumery and its cohorts being ever-welcome standbys, we'll mention again where to get what. Elizabeth Arden, at Wilcox's, 20 Nassau, has gone more out for Easter packaging than ever. Specificially, a fuzzy white bunny bottle, complete with tinsel ears and pink ribbon whiskers, holds 4 oz. of toilet water; gold and jewel-trimmed plastic eggs are perfume-filled, so are inexpensive plastic nests, net and flower-trimmed. The Clothes Line, 6 Chambers, has Henri Bendel, exclusive and smart as the name implies; while Mary Chess, at The Exchange, 164 Nassau, has nothing new for Easter, but her regular line is ever-successful. Thorne's, 168 Nassau, carries almost every other make you ever heard of, most of them glamorously gift-packaged with a wide price range.

New in the jewelry line is the heavenly, amazingly inexpensive Gret Barkin handmade copper collection at The Clothes Line. It's so good that we're scooping ourselves on a detailed write-up next week by telling you about it now. You can't miss with handbags, items that go in them or substitutes for them, and along those lines you won't miss at The Cummins Shop (96 Nassau), Luttmann's (132 Nassau) or The Exchange.

The first-named has efficient carry-alls, each with comb, lipstick case and compact. They're all $3 plus tax, from a delightful miniature gold-edged leather to a larger size in silky Roman stripes, solid faille or leather. There, too, is a fitted leather wallet (if anyone wants to give us an inexpensive Easter gift, it's our choice!) with lipstick case, compact, change purse, billfold and keyring all built in. In navy, red, brown—$5 plus tax.

At Luttmann's are soft, well-made suede bags in subtle Springy colors—gray, navy, copper sun and a mauvish brown, $9.50. They also have brand new Buxton polka dot wallets with white kid trimming and snap-fastening change purse, in navy, green, red—$5 plus. At The Exchange are handmade French imports which, once seen, will prey on you till you get one. We know—a red leather job, completely simple outside, with individual inside compartments for cigarettes, lipstick, compact, comb and feminine miscellany. plus change purse, is our dream of an expensive Easter present ($25.) There are smaller models on the same idea; also divine old French brocades made by hand into evening purses, wallets, compacts and cigarettes, from $3.75.

Easter wearables are particularly nice at Bert-Ann, 230 Nassau, and Mary Gill, at the same address. The former has new Yolande blouses in white crepe and silk which, with their delicate hand-fagoting or embroidery, make you feel like Easter-parading just to look at them. Yolande has outdone herself in handmade, pastel slips with the same typical, taste—Continued on Page 4 ful touches. Mary Gill has, among a wide variety of coats, one that we yearn for. It's in gray or navy, a luscious soft broadcloth with cat's-eye-ich buttons on a double-breasted front, a full back gathered with a short belt and wide lapel. Nylon sweaters are appearing all over town, but Clayton's has the only white, long-sleeved cardigan we have seen. It's best quality—"Bonnie Brae" to be exact—and costs $8.95. (Orderable in colors.)

The Exchange provides well for miscellaneous giving to the fair sex with gay, bright-colored cellophane nest-like packages filled with various feminine frills, including earrings, pill boxes, miniature compacts, lipstick-cased whisk brooms, from 60 cents. The Little Gallery's April exhibition of Beers watercolors gives you a perfect chance to make any Nantucket, ocean or quaint village lover more than happy. Appealing, artistic, simple but expert, these scenes of dunes, harbors, Nantucket streets and houses start at $5. The Watch Shop (134 Nassau, second floor) has a new selection of metal watch straps. Snake bands are there with varying new looks, while stretch bands with removable links to fit the smallest of feminine wrists are also available, from $6. At The Exchange "Hold-erettes", tricky but sturdy new gadgets for parking your handbag under the table while eating out would simplify any woman's existence for $1.50.

The Clothes Lines PRESENT:

Act I, Scene 1: Any Saturday morning in any home in Princeton, with Mr. and Mrs. Customer sitting at the breakfast-table.

Mrs. C.: Good morning, Darling.

Mr. C.: What's good about it?

Mrs. C.: Why it's Saturday. No school, no office, no strain. What fun! And a chance to get our shopping done together.

Mr. C.: A chance to shop with the brats? No strain? Just fun - huh? Where? How?

Mrs. C.: Now listen, Dear. Let's get organized and go down to The Clothes Line. That's fun for all of us. Don't you know about the playroom in the basement of The Little Clothes Line? You can sit in The Boys' Clothes Line reading magazines, while I shop and the kids - or brats as you call them - play downstairs.

Mr. C.: Not bad. Wait a minute. How on earth would we pay for a lot of things all at once, particularly if you happen to cut loose?

Mrs. C.: Why The Clothes Lines, all three of them, have a wonderful new plan for budget shoppers like ourselves - the L. A. P.

Mr. C.: What's L. A. P.?

Mrs. C.: L. A. P. simply means "Layaway Plan." You pick out exactly what you want and The Clothes Line lays it away. You pay a small amount regularly and take it out when it's paid for. You don't have to pay for anything all at once.

Mr. C.: Pretty sound. Give me some more.

Mrs. C.: Well, you don't have to buy anything on the spur of the moment. We can look and look before buying. I'd like to see the new Mother-and-Daughter Dresses—two dresses for $13.00, my dress for only $7.95. And, think of it, nylon slips.

Mr. C.: Nylon? They are using that stuff for everything. What next?

Mrs. C.: Nylon in everything is just about it! They have nylon sweaters for $5.95. And imagine nylon socks for boys. One pair will last for years and no washing worries.

Mr. C.: Don't you have to wash nylon?

Mrs. C.: Of course, Darling, but it dries in five minutes. And you never have to iron nylon. Haven't you noticed how calm I am becoming on Tuesdays? No ironing, stupid.

Mr. C.: A playroom in the basement; magazines in The Boys' Clothes Line; L. A. P., P. A. L. or what have you; nylon, no washing, no ironing; no strain. Let's go—

Mrs. C.: Where?

two-piece cotton suits for little boys in two styles: one, a button-on belt type with solid color shorts, white blouse and matching-color collar; the other, a suspender-type in plaids or solids, wearable without the shirt as a sunsuit. Both $2.95, sizes 1-3. For girls there are two new dress lines: the bewitching handmade Margaret Steeles with touches of embroidery, such as "I am very good" at the bottom of one, in sizes 2-6, $7.95-$9.95; the "Love" line, which varies for the better part quite tastefully from party to play, with a happy price range of $2.20 to $4.95 in sizes 1 to 12.

Rubber animals—bunnies, lambs and a personalitiful tongue-wagging frog—are well represented at Thorne's, from 39 cents. Zavelles' has a new series of the 25-cent, unbreakable Golden records, as well as the new Golden tiny hooks, 12 for $1. This time it's "The Nonsense Stories." There, too, are new marionettes, Sambo and Clown by name, already assembled, easy to manipulate, for $1.98.

Candy-wise, Viedt's has the best selection of Easter eating that we saw. The wonderful, old-time (yours and mine) panorama eggs are back for 30 cents. Real jelly-centered beans are 39 cents a pound; edible animals of all sorts are colorful and well-priced; ready-made candy and jelly-bean egg-filled baskets are $1.89. Thorne's has huge, not-so-huge and small—Continued on Page 7

For men, our thoughts are some-

For the house, lady of it, or her

Zavelle's are delightful. Different cents to $1.50.

Part II. Spring Buys—Assorted, Unorganized. For men, MacDaid's has some unbelievably soft, handsome English Shetland sport jackets for $55; sport shirts are many and varied at Lahey's (seersucker, washable gabardine, Dan River plaids, oxfords, from $3.50 to $5.95). There, too, is a nice oxford, cut extra full for golfing, in many colors. Stonecutter cotton cord suits (or separate coats) are good in quality and in tailoring—they give a real sport jacket look instead of the wilted pajama effect that so many summer-worn seer-

Wallach hand-blocked cotton skirts with or without boleros are particularly attractive at The looking fisherman's creel and a natural or rust-colored hatbox go from $3.95 to $6.95. Joan's (63 Palmer Square) has the best selection of sunback dresses with stoles, some tailored, some frilly, in solids, plaids or prints from $12.95. Shorts are out in number at The Clothes Line—two lengths come in denim, twill, perm Krinkle or corduroy from $2.95.

The Boys' Clothesline (57 Palmer Square) has miniature (3 to 6X) collarless seersucker suits with boxer shorts in green, blue, red, tan for $7.95. Seersucker is there in bathrobes, too, wide stripes in 4-10 are $5.50, in 12-16, $6.50. Wooden shoe trees at Hult's for children, young and old, adjust with an easy spring control to four or more sizes, both in width and length, cost $1.50. The Knitting Shop (242½ Nassau) has smooth, catch-proof metal sock-stretchers, completely simple to adjust, for men, women and children, $1.50. They also have a satisfying choice of knitting bags. Our favorites of them all are the simulated leather, collapsible (for travelling) models with zippered side opening and separated zippered pocket for instructions, etc.—$2.25—and drawing style with water-proof lining that triples for knitting bag, beach bag and pocketbook for $3.

At Farr Hardware, 138 Nassau, is a brilliant inspiration in the way of window screens: a brand new frameless screen which is attached by means of an adjustable screw arrangement, tightens to any weatherbeaten window frame, is easily removable and storable, requires no painting and costs no more than an ordinary framed screen. The Wright Store (130 Nassau) is displaying "the best buy in Jersey" in power motors—only $99.50, with all parts made by top-notch companies. Luttmann's has the unbeatable-for-looks-and-quality Amelia Earhart luggage in a new, lovely "Princess Blue."

At The Cummins Shop the Royal Doulton Champions—dog models copied from real champions—would drive any dog lover who couldn't afford one mad. Beautiful linens of too many types to describe here are very fine at the Town Shop—blanket covers, embroidered pillow cases, luncheon sets, etc. At Thorne's is a Guest Tooth Brush Pack which should be in every guest bathroom—six different colors with nylon bristles for 70 cents. The same comment goes for the Mem Guest Packs at Wilcox's: six Massline hand towels, six wonderfully scented hand soaps in four colors for $1.

Slashes Fuel Costs!

With living costs going up—think of having a new and modern Bethlehem Anthratube heating plant which saves up to 40% in operation over any other fuel or equipment on the market. This is because the Bethlehem Anthratube has a proved efficiency of over 80% and because it burns economical "Peo" size anthracite. Completely automatic—feeds coal automatically... removes ash automatically!

Product of a century-old company, the Bethlehem Anthratube is delivered completely assembled for speed and savings on installation.
